Write the paragraph in Present tense.

Last Saturday, my brother Alex woke up very early. He didn't want to sleep anymore. Did he feel excited about something? Yes, he did! He had planned to go fishing with Dad. Alex crept out of his room and went to the kitchen. Mom wasn't there yet. He poured himself a bowl of cereal. Was it sweet enough? He added a little more sugar.

Soon, Dad came downstairs. "Good morning, Alex! Are you ready for our fishing trip?" he asked. Alex nodded eagerly. They packed their fishing poles and a cooler with snacks. They didn't forget the bait. The car started easily. The drive to the lake wasn't very long.

When they arrived, the sun shone brightly. Did they see many other people? No, the lake was almost empty. They found a quiet spot by the water. Alex cast his line into the lake. He waited patiently. He didn't catch a fish right away. Was he disappointed? A little, but he knew fishing took time. After a while, his bobber wiggled! "Dad, I got one!" he shouted. It was a small fish, but Alex was very proud. They caught a few more fish before they went home. They had a wonderful day together.
